Study shows very low dioxin levels in fish

Biologist says results indicate local pollution less than in 'pristine' areas

About 20 or so people attended the session including one man who said he had driven all the way from Calcasieu Parish near Lake Charles in Louisiana. His reason, he said, was that a similar study by the ATSDR, under way in Calcasieu Parish, had yielded dramatically different results. Study methods also were slightly different, said

Ladner steps down as county board chief

Fellow school board member asks her to quit for 'ethics' infraction

BY JOHN WATERMAN
Staff Writer

Larry Seal, who will begin his term as president of the Hancock County School Board in January, wants current President Peggy Ladner off the board entirely, alleging that she conducted herself unethically during her term of office.

Seal said that he could not comment on the exact nature of the alleged infraction, as it involved personnel matters that he could not discuss. He said he read a portion of the board's code of ethics before asking for Ladner's resignation.

Seal read the following portion of the code of ethics: "A board member shall take no private action that will compromise the Board or administration. And respect the confidentiality of information that is privileged under applicable law."

Ladner said she had originally

Compretta at odds with Barbour on state bond issue

BY JOHN WATERMAN
Staff Writer

A proposed two-day special session of the State Legislature ended its second week on Friday.

Seven weeks before the regular term began, Governor Haley Barbour convened the legislature in a special session to discuss a bond package of $103.7 million.

On Thursday, the House finally passed this bond issue, along an additional $189 million for higher education improvements. The bill also contained a provision which stated that no less than 10 percent of the funds be allocated to help minority businesses. It was passed by a near-unanimous total of 112-2.

Barbour is vehemently against many of these additions, denouncing them as racial quota systems in a statement issued on Thursday.

"After already jeopardizing 2,000 Mississippi jobs, the House leadership today finally allowed a vote on economic development projects -- but only after adding other projects and

Carol Strohmetz, president of Friends of the Animal Shelter in Hancock County, fields a deluge of phone calls Friday from people wanting to order the new Coastal Treasures calendar, which features local women posing for nude - but tastefully obscured - photos by local fine art photographers.

New calendar gives 'Friends' group some positive exposure

BY GEOFF BELCHER
News Editor

Apparently, nude neighbors plus fine art photography equals brisk fundraising. At least, that's how it's turning out for the Friends of the Animal Shelter in Hancock County.

The Friends unveiled their "Coastal Treasures" calendar in a standing-room-only kick-off party at the Bay City Grill last Sunday, and have already raised more than $15,000 to help animals in Hancock County.

The fact that the ladies in the photos are nude - even though everything is covered - has generated a bit of controversy, but Friends President Carol Strohmetz takes that in stride.

"Overall, the reaction has been very positive," Strohmetz said Friday. "That's mostly what we've heard from people - they've said 'Thank you' and how important the work that we're doing is."

"We wanted to step out and take a bold step, because there has been such a problem with the pet overpopulation. We knew this was going to mean taking a risk, but we felt that it was worth it. ... We are not embarrassed. There is nothing prurient or pornographic about this calendar, and we see nothing wrong with it."

"If you can kill 80 animals out of 100 every week and not have some sort of visceral feeling about it, then I don't know what kind of human being you are."

Strohmetz said the Friends are working toward a day when there is no need for an animal shelter because the problem of pet overpopulation will be ended. The organization has underwritten nearly 100 free spay and/or neuter certificates for Hancock County pets in just the past month. Last year, the group donated more than $23,000 to the Waveland Animal Shelter for services and supplies, including $15,000 through a PetSmart grant to create a spay and neuter clinic at the facility.

In addition to the spay and neuter programs, the Friends of the Animal Shelter host several fundraisers each year to help sick and injured animals and feral cats; sponsor pet education programs in area schools; and are working toward the day when there is a no-kill shelter for animals in Hancock County.

People who have a problem with feral cats in their area may call the Friends at 216-PETS, and the group will help. Strohmetz said that just two adult cats, if left intact, can generate up to 67,000 cats in just six years.

The group hopes to raise around $45,000 with the calendars to fund its programs.

The calendars are available at several different locations in Hancock County, including: The Purple Snapper 111 Main St., Bay Crafts 107 N. Beach Blvd., Maggie Mays 100 N. Beach Blvd., Beaches Hair Design 128 Main St., 1/4 Moon Gallery 146 Main St., North Beach Interiors 104 N. Beach Blvd., Rosies Nature Cottage, 2080 Hwy 90, Bookends Book Store 111 Hwy 90, Bay City Gym 547 St. John St., all in Bay St. Louis; and at Rickey's Restaurant, Coleman Ave., Acadian Grill 141 Hwy 90, and That Cute Little Shoppe 237 Coleman Ave. in Waveland. You can also order one directly from the Friends of the Animal Shelter by calling 216-PETS. The calendars are $15 each, plus $3 for postage and handling.

Depot hosts Horn Island Show

Artwork from Island Sojourn: Selected Works from the Horn Island Workshop Experience will be on display from Tuesday, Nov. 23, until Friday, Dec. 17 at the Historic Bay St. Louis Depot in cooperation with the Bay St. Louis Division of Cultural Affairs. The Depot is open Monday-Friday from 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. For more information contact Mike Cuevas at 228-436-7120.

Ten years in a row, the Ohr-O'Keefe Museum of Art has hosted aspiring and professional artists for a wilderness week in May on Horn Island. From their studies done on the island, the artists return to their studios to expand their studies into finished pieces of art. The works of art are for purchase and include painting, sculpture, ceramics and photography.

The "Experience" is a five-day, four night primitive camping workshop on Horn Island which is a natural wildlife preserve located twelve miles off shore in the beautiful Gulf of Mexico. The island is ten miles long and approximately one mile across at its widest point.

Guest artists this year were DALE SIMMONS and PAMELA TRIPP-SIMMONS from Waveland, Mississippi. Call 374-5547 ext. 16 for more.

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

Congratulations to the champion PRCC Wilcats

Congratulations are in order for the Pearl River Community College Wilcats for repeating as the state's football champions with a 11-0 record.

The next move the Wilcats, ranked No. 2 by the National Junior College Athletic Association, will be next Sunday play Butler County (Kansas) Community College in the Dalton Defenders Bowl for the National title in Coffeyville, Kansas.

As many of you, Hancock County is part of Pearl River Community College's district. Many students, football, baseball, basketball, track, etc., players from Hancock, Bay High, St. Stanislaus and Our Lady Academy attend PRCC.

PRCC head football coach Tim Hatten, school administrators, teachers, students all need to be very proud of their football team.

The game for the National Title should be very interesting as Butler and PRCC both have 11-0 records for the season and are rated number one and two.

The only time PRCC captured a National football title was in 1961 when the Wildcats were coached by the legendary T.D. (Dobie) Holden.

PRCC like Hancock County's four high schools, in addition to educational excellence, the young men and women also excel in sports.

I am sure many of PRCC's sophomores will be transferring to Universities and Colleges when they finish this school year.

It is hard to believe Thanksgiving will be celebrated on Thursday, as we have thus far had very mild weather for the season.

Winter wear has not been used very much and indications are that we can expect mild temperatures the rest of the this month.

While on the subject of winter wear, if you are a bit short on cash and need some, you may want to visit the Goodwill Store located at Highway 90 and Dunbar Avenue in Bay St. Louis.

Goodwill is a place where folks who are short on cash can find some good bargains on used clothing.

Senate has heavy tasks ahead

When the Senate begins its new session in January, the American people should expect more. As a result of the election, no longer is the partisan split in the Senate almost right down the middle. Instead, given the clear victory by President Bush, members of both parties have a responsibility to take up the people's work and keep up the pressure by making sure elections in tasks before us. The priorities are clear. Winning the War on Terror: Our policy of going after terrorists on their turf before they can attack ours is sound. Since the September 11, 2001, terrorist attacks, America's military men and women and our homeland security agents have kept America secure while severely disrupting or destroying terrorists and their murderous plans. We've got to keep up the pressure by making sure elections in Iraq take place unimpeded by terrorist insurgents. If President Bush asks for more money or troops for the War on Terror, the American people expect the Congress to oblige so that our troops can return home soon.

Energy Policy: I've been championing a comprehensive national energy policy for several years - one that balances America's energy needs with our environmental responsibilities. We need to act quickly on an energy policy that provides more incentives for domestic energy production as well as incentives for research and use of alternative energy sources like fuel cells, solar and wind power. We cannot remain dependent on foreign countries like Saudi Arabia for our energy needs. If we do, our national security is at risk. We should find common ground and pass a national energy policy immediately.

Job Creation: Senators, Congressmen, and Presidents cannot create private sector jobs, but we sure have the power to encourage it. In my view passing both highway construction and tax reform bills is the best ways to encourage job creation.

Highways are the blood vessels of economic activity

MISSISSIPPI, THE HOSPITALITY STATE

The Costs of Smoking: Public and Private

BY ROBERT A. LEVY

More ammunition for the anti-smoking crowd will be released in a new book from MIT Press entitled "The Price of Smoking." According to pre-publication reports, the authors - Duke University economist Frank Sloan and four colleagues - estimate the actual costs of smoking at nearly $40 per pack. That includes roughly $33 for reduced life expectancy and tobacco-related disabilities, $5.44 for the costs of secondhand smoke, and $1.44 for pooled-risk programs like Medicare, Medicaid, group life insurance and sick leave.

Regrettably, the data will be exploited by zealots to stop the rest of us from making our own decisions about cigarettes. That's why it's important to understand the $40 cost and the public policy implications of Sloan's work. Assuming that the numbers are accurate, their principal utility lies in helping private parties make rational choices, not in promoting yet another anti-tobacco crusade. So let's dissect the data.

For starters, the authors properly distinguish between $33 of costs incurred by each smoker, which can be averted by not smoking, and around $7 of costs imposed by smokers on others, which economists call "externalities." This distinction is crucial: With respect to the $33 component, decisions about smoking are voluntary, private matters. We do not need government making those decisions for us.

Externalized costs are different. Consider secondhand smoke. Some non-smokers have illnesses like asthma or bronchitis that are exacerbated by secondhand smoke. Still, those non-smokers have an obvious remedy: Do not hang around places where smokers light up. On private property, the owner should determine whether to admit smokers, non-smokers, neither or both. Persons who object may go elsewhere. To be sure, not all property is private. Government-owned property, for example, belongs to the taxpayers, most of whom are non-smokers. They should not be required to leave their own property to escape offensive smoke, especially in locations that do not afford ready means of egress, like reading rooms in public libraries, waiting rooms in public hospitals and elevators, in government office buildings. But at locations that are not particularly confining, like public beaches, visitors can steer clear of smoke by taking a step or two away, or avail themselves of smoke-free areas. In other words, very little of Sloan's estimated $5.44 cost of secondhand smoke justifies additional anti-smoking regulations. Almost all of that cost is easily avoidable.

The same is true for Sloan's other "social" costs, totaling $1.44 per pack. Basically, smokers are able to impose social costs upon non-smokers because the government has decided, first, to insure the health costs of low-income and elderly persons and, second, to fund the insurance in a manner that does not distinguish between high-risk smokers and lower-risk non-smokers. If insurance premiums fully reflected the health risk implicit in each policyholder's smoking habits, there would be no costs transferred from smokers as a group to non-

and a proven way to foster job growth. Where there are good highways, companies locate and create jobs. Passage of a highway bill could be one of the best economic stimulus bills available to Congress and the President.

The President has indicated that simplifying the tax code will be one of his priorities in his second term. Making taxes lower and simpler are proven ways to encourage employers to create new jobs and to give individuals more money to spend. Americans want an easier to understand tax code, and the Senate should join the President in producing that.

Judicial Nominations: As soon as the last election ballot was counted, the questions started coming about how the extended Republican majority in the Senate would impact judicial nominations. From Judge Charles Pickering's nomination to the potential for major changes on the U.S. Supreme Court, Americans are tired of the sharp partisan divide that now characterizes judicial nominations.

In the new Congress there will be 55 Republicans, not enough to secure the 60-vote majority needed to break a filibuster and move nominations. But this election showed that voters are impatient with the stubborn politics of stalemate. They want good judges on the bench within days or weeks, not years, of being nominated.

Most Americans believe that the President's qualified nominees deserve a straight up-or-down vote by the full Senate. So, I'm proposing that we study Senate rules as articulated by our Founding Fathers. It's my firm belief that a simple majority of 51 votes is consistent with what they believed was needed for nominations to pass the Senate. I'm hopeful that my Democratic colleagues will heed the election results which show it is clear Americans want an end to the pointless filibustering of good, qualified judicial nominees. Of late, the Senate has garnered a deserved reputation for partisan gridlock and unproductive sessions. The American people expect more. This nation wants to defeat terrorism, find more affordable energy, create jobs and improve our judicial system. They expect Senators to tackle the tough tasks facing Americans, and they want us to live up to the Senate's long heritage of statesmanship and civility.

Smoking -- the costs

smokers as a group. Thus, the remedy for tobacco-related costs that deplete Medicaid and Medicare coffers is to increase the "premiums" for smokers or reduce the benefits payable for their illnesses. Taxpayers have a right to demand responsible behavior from persons who receive public benefits.

Moreover, there's another factor in the equation. It may sound ghoulish, but premature deaths from smoking can generate long-term external benefits in the form of lower retirement and nursing home costs. Those benefits (less any payroll taxes that would otherwise have been paid by deceased or disabled smokers) are an offset to near-term medical outlays. "If anything," concludes Sloan, "Medicare should compensate smokers and tobacco companies, not the reverse."

The other major pooled-risk programs are group life insurance and sick leave. In providing those benefits, some employers may have decided that discrimination between smokers and non-smokers isn't cost-effective, or perhaps employers fear litigation, or they're constrained by labor contracts. In any event, the externalized costs of pooled insurance and sick leave are not very large, and the remedy, if one is needed, is to remove legal and contractual prohibitions on discrimination against smokers.

In a nutshell, then, Sloan and his colleagues have identified three types of costs: Private internalized costs can be eliminated by choosing not to smoke. Externalized costs of secondhand smoke can mostly be redressed by recognizing private property rights and providing for smoke-free areas on government property. Externalized costs of pooled risk programs can be remedied by permitting rational discrimination against smokers who impose those costs.

Yes, there may be some residual cost for which smokers should be accountable. But don't forget that state and federal excise taxes already yield revenues of 76 cents per pack and smokers have been socked with a quarter-trillion-dollar cost payable to state governments under the terms of the Master Settlement Agreement. In short, smokers more than pay their way.

Sheriff's Narcotics unit makes bust

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

Publisher Emeritus
The Hancock County Sheriff's Narcotics Division made the arrest of Pass Christian resident Friday at a Bay St. Louis motel following a tip on drug activity, according to Sheriff Steve Garber.

Major Matt Karl, Narcotics Division director said, "We received information several weeks ago about possible drug activities being conducted from a Bay St. Louis motel room. Through our investigation we were able to collect enough evidence to secure a search warrant."

"Oliver Anthony Toles, 35, of Pass Christian was arrested and charged with the possession of a controlled substance, (crack cocaine) with intent to deliver Friday afternoon," Karl added.

Toles was lodged in the Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility in lieu of a $50,000 bond, Karl reported.

Karl who is handling the case, said officers found approximately one ounce of crack cocaine and a very small amount of marijuana.

In addition to Karl, Agent Chris Russell, Investigator Matt Barnett, Deputy Captain Joe Herrin and Deputy Capt. Eddie Jennings assisted in the arrest.

Pass Garden Club encourages recycling

THE SEA COAST ECHO

As a recycling project for the year, the Pass Christian Garden Club has placed containers for aluminum cans in the Teachers' Lounges at Pass Christian Elementary School, and Pass Christian High School, as well as at the Boys and Girls Club.

The cans are picked up on a regular basis by Otis Gates who hauls them to the recycling center in Gulfport. Proceeds from this project go to the Christian Concern Food Bank at Gates' church, Our Mother of Mercy Church in Pass Christian.

The project is coordinated for the garden club by Michelle Smith, who said the response has been "wonderful" with everyone involved.

She stresses the importance of recycling with the following facts from the Aluminum Association:

- When you toss out one aluminum can you, waste as much energy as if you'd filled the same can half full of gasoline and poured it onto the ground.

- The energy saved from one recycled aluminum can will operate a television set for three hours cuts related air pollution by 95 percent.

- Making aluminum from recycled aluminum uses 95 percent less energy than making aluminum from scratch.

- If you throw an aluminum can out of your car window, it will still litter the Earth up to 500 years later.

Smith said that, according to Recycle America's statistics, "if only 250 people each recycled one can a day, we would save the energy equivalent of 1,750 to 3,500 gallons of gasoline every year."

She added, "If we recycle, we mine less raw materials. To produce one ton of aluminum from raw materials, it takes a phenomenal 8,750 pounds of bauxite and 1,020 pounds of petroleum coke. But according to Aluminum Association estimates, this figure is cut down by 95 percent when recycled aluminum is used."

"Before you recycle your aluminum," said Smith, "be sure to remove food and rinse the cans, and crush them if possible."

In addition to cans, she pointed out that other aluminum items that can be recycled include foil, pie plates, frozen food trays, window frames and siding.

Cub Scouts Pack 20 tours historic Battleship Alabama

Pack 20 from the Pine Burr Area Council of the Boy Scouts of America spent the night of September 25 living aboard the Battleship USS Alabama in Mobile. One of America's finest military parks, "USS Alabama Battleship Memorial Park" offers Boy and Girl Scouts an overnight camping adventure and the opportunity to experience life on board a real Navy ship.

Led by Scoutmaster Ron Schadler, the Pack members arrived Saturday afternoon and, along with several other Packs, had the run of the park. The scouts and their parents toured the World War II battleship, along with the submarine USS Drum, historic aircraft, tanks, artillery and other combat vehicles on display across the 100-acre park.

The highlight of the trip, however, was bedding down for the night aboard the Alabama in one of her forward berths. Armed with sleeping bags and pillows, the Scouts slept in chain-linked bunks hung from the ceiling just as the crew did when the battleship was in service.

History came alive for the Scouts at the park as they were able to experience first-hand the conditions aboard ship. The trip enabled all involved to better understand and appreciate the contributions made by military personnel during times of conflict.

For more information about Pack 20 and the Pine Burr Area Council, contact Ron Schadler at 228-586-0479 or check the web at pineburrscouting.org.

Olde Towne Players donate to Center on Wrongful Convictions

Olde Towne Players has made a donation from proceeds of its latest production, "The Exonerated," to the Center on Wrongful Convictions at Northwestern University in Chicago. "The Exonerated" tells true stories about six people from throughout the United States who were convicted of murder, sentenced to death and spent years on death row before it was proven that they did not commit the crimes.

The community theatre organization has sent a check for $400 to the Center on Wrongful Convictions, a tax-exempt organization dedicated to investigating death sentences and rectifying wrongful convictions.

Directors Becky Rotundo and Nan Ehrbright said that Dunbar Village's sponsorship of the production greatly enhanced the amount of the donation.

DuPont -- ATSDR results

biologist Michael Tritico. A titanium dioxide plant, Louisiana Pigment is located in the area, as is other industry.

Tritico, who is currently working as consultant with a Lake Charles area law firm, said that not only the levels of dioxin found in the tests were troubling to him, but the make up of the test profile in mullet, the fish showing the highest level of contamination, was also confusing.

Tritico's concern, he said, was not that the levels found in fish samples were high, but that they were low, much lower than median levels found in almost all of the 388 sites tested by the EPA in a 1992 series of both potentially contaminated and uncontaminated sites.

In all 388 sites sampled, a median level of 2.8 ppt TEQ and a mean average level of 11.1 ppt TEQ were found in fish tissues.

When fish samples of the 35 sites that the EPA considered background areas, or generally free of influence from industrial releases, urban activities, or agricultural runoff were tested, a median level of 0.21 ppt

TEQ and a mean average level of 0.59 ppt TEQ were found, says a reference from the ATSDR's report on local dioxins.

Some level of dioxin occurs naturally, said DuPont's environmental manager Brad Martin, even in humans. Levels may be higher in fatty tissues as dioxins are fat-soluble, tests have shown.

Levels in samples collected by the MDEQ for the local report, ranged from 0.0 in Large Mouth Bass, the ATSDR report said, to the highest levels reported, 0.389 in a Mullet sample. The Mullet sample was the only MDEQ sample with levels high enough to even range within the 1992 samples of sites considered free of the influence from industrial releases, urban activities, or agricultural runoff. All the other samples were at levels lower than the median level for these types of areas, and very much lower than the levels in sites considered at risk for potential contamination from these sources.

The congener profile (the types of dioxins found) of the Mullet closely resembles the profile of the fish samples taken in Calcasieu, said Tritico, and the profile of the waste stream from Louisiana Pigment. The congener profile of the mullet does not however match the waste stream profile reported by the DuPont Plant, said Tritico.

Tritico asked ATSDR representatives to consider testing new samples to rule out the possibility of a mistake in the testing, preferably at their lab in Atlanta, where samples from Calcasieu Parish were tested. Tests of the MDEQ samples were tested at Triangle Labs in North Carolina, said Martin.

Tritico also asked if there was a possibility that the analysis of the waste stream from the plant was in error. Another possibility is that there is another source for the type of chlorinated dioxins found in the sample, he said.

ATSDR tissue samples in Calcasieu Parish tested at levels from a low in one catfish at 1.71, with all other samples testing at higher levels starting with a mullet at 7.72 all the way to a young garfish at 65.48.

Earlier tests by the EPA and NOAA showed levels ranging from 1.74 for medium migratory fish, to 14.7 in large migratory crustaceans. The ATSDR also did blood tests for dioxin levels in residents of Calcasieu Parish, said Tritico.

"Quality assurance and quality control measures were followed as the report indicates," said Martin on the accuracy of the testing. The MDEQ conducted the sampling under its own standardized sampling and quality assurance/quality control guidelines, states the report.

Any further testing would be a decision that would need to be made by the ATSDR, said DuPont's Jim Foster. Plant officials had no further comment.

requiring that work on those projects be done by people based on the color of their skin."

Barbour stated that he would veto the bill if it passed the senate.

"The people of Mississippi do not believe in sanctioning discrimination in the laws we pass and neither do I. I will veto this bill if it comes to my desk carrying the stain of racial quotas."

The money was part of an economic development plan to boost industry across the state. Almost half of the money was scheduled to be given to industries on the Gulf Coast: $40 million to Northrop-Grumman shipyards in Pascagoula, and $4.2 million to Stennis Space Center in Hancock County.

The session has been in deadlock for two weeks now.

Barbour's proposed bond issue has been strongly opposed by the democrats, who feel

At a press conference on Nov. 4, Barbour stated that he knew the speaker of the house had publicly criticized the special session. He did not indicate that he expected the session to last any longer than two days, however. Speaker Pro Temp J.P. Compretta of Bay St. Louis agreed that the legislature was obligated to pay Northrop-Grumman the $40 million dollars. He said many democrats were concerned with the other bonds on the table.

"(The Governor) said he was planning a reduction in bonds. In the same breath he issued a proclamation coming for more bonds. The house is concerned that the deficit for next year will be (very) high."

The deadlock over the bond issue has sparked criticism from Republicans across the state, many of whom feel that Democrats from the Gulf Coast are not representing the best interests of their region by delaying the passage of the bonds.

"It's ironic that the republicans continuously say that we need to tighten our belts, and not spend money. But they're voting for (almost) 110 million dollars of debt. As Democrats, we're being fiscally responsible."

This special session has cost taxpayers $35,000 a day, Compretta said. He expected the legislature to resolve the impasse before the end of the week.

"Certainly, everyday we're here, we're mindful of our duties and the cost," Compretta said.

planned to step down as president in September, after Superintendent David Kopf told the board that he wanted to revisit issues that had been a source of controversy across the district, such as the new uniform policy and the board's stance on the position of athletic director.

"I told my husband then, I am not up for this fight."

However, she said she has no intention of giving up her seat on the board itself, despite these allegations. She said that she has done nothing wrong, and said she has not been informed of exactly what she had allegedly done.

"(Seal) made a public statement that I have done something unethical, and refused to back it up. I would welcome an investigation from the ethics commission, because I have done nothing wrong."

Ladner said she felt the attacks were personal. She said that since she voted along with Cheryl Bennett and Larry Peterson to renew the district's contract with Moran Hauling that Seal has harbored a grudge.

Seal denied this, saying that the record would reflect that he and Ladner had, with very few exceptions, voted consistently. He also said that his asking for Ladner's resignation was in no way personal.

"She is not being singled out. We have a code of ethics to adhere to and the public that placed us in office expects us to perform our duties as prescribed by state law and the board policy. Variations from either should not, and will not be tolerated."

Commission approves casino project

BY HOLBROOK MOHR
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Developers of a new Hancock County casino are betting they can pull gamblers into Mississippi from southeast Louisiana.

The Silver Slipper Gambling Hall and Saloon is one of two large-scale coast casino projects the Mississippi Gaming Commission approved Wednesday. A 60,000-square-foot addition to Biloxi's Isle of Capri Casino got a green light as well, said Gaming Commission spokeswoman Leigh Ann Wilkins.

The Silver Slipper will be built on 30 acres at the Bayou Caddy site in unincorporated Hancock County near Lakeshore, according to the Silver Slipper Casino Venture LLC attorney Scott Andress.

"It's the closest casino to Louisiana," Andress said. "Our intent is to focus on the southeast Louisiana market."

Currently the only other casino in Mississippi's easternmost coastal county is the Casino Magic in Bay St. Louis, which opened in 1992.

Andress, with Jackson-based Balch & Bingham, described the Silver Slipper as a 24,000-square-foot, four-deck gambling barge for high rollers and low rollers.

"The top deck will be all poker, 10 poker tables," Andress said. "There will be 19 table games and 750 slot machines."

He said there also will be a 45,000-square-foot, land-based facility with entertainment, buffet restaurants, private dining and administrative offices.

The $40 million project should take about 11 months to complete and Andress said construction crews hope to break ground within a month.

In addition to the $250 million Hard Rock Casino currently under construction in Biloxi, the Silver Slipper will bring to 14 the number of casinos on the coast.

The Isle of Capri got the go-ahead Wednesday to replace its existing barge.

Isle spokesman Rich Westfall said the two-leveled barge will be replaced with a three-level 162,000-square-foot barge with 90,000 square feet dedicated to gambling.

Utility receives "Above and Beyond Award"

Coast Electric Power Association received an Above and Beyond Award at the Mississippi Committee for Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve's annual award banquet held in Jackson on November 5, 2004. The award honors employers that have given above and beyond the requirements of the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA) for the calendar year.

Barry Morreale, Coast Electric right of way employee, served overseas and nominated the association for the prestigious award. Morreale felt the association provided overwhelming support by sending cards, care packages and prayers during his year long deployment. Morreale said, "It shows everyday when you work for a company that cares about its employees."

Some Jourdan River camp sites closing

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

When Mille Breun and her family went to their favorite primitive camp site by the Jourdan River at McLeod Park this week they were told by park personnel that the camp sites would be closing in December. The sites are located to the east of the boat dock. When park officials couldn't elaborate on the information, Breun called her brother Ross Carroll who works for the Federal Aviation Administration to get some answers.

Breun said she was told that the campsites will be closed because they lie in the safety fly zone which extends from the end of the runway all the way to the Jourdan River. Port and Harbor director Hal Walters confirmed Carroll's information. Trees located on airport property have already been cleared all the way to the river, Walters said, with a small buffer of trees left by the river. The camp sites are actually located on airport property. The park gradually encroached on airport property through the years, he said.

The actions being taken now are mandated by the FAA, Walters said. Eventually the airport property will be fenced off from the park property. The boat dock located at the park will not be fenced off even though a small portion of it is technically on airport property. A road approaching the boat dock from the east will be closed, but there is alternative access to the dock from another area of the park, Walters said.

In place of the trees the airport will install strobe light towers that will serve as part of the airport's instrument landing system. The first set of towers will be 50 feet tall and located near the river. Towers will decrease in height as they approach the runway and direct light upward.

Walters said some light will shine down but that the idea will be to shine light upward to direct planes. The lights will be on continuously, he said.

In the next three years, the airport hopes to extend the runway to add 2,000 feet, Walters said. This will allow larger planes to fuel up and have room to take off fully loaded.

Plans are to add 1,500 feet to the south end of the runway and 500 feet to the north end of the runway.

Another Bayou Caddy-area casino proposed

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Another hotel/casino project has been proposed by the Ladner family, this time by Terry Ladner. The Hancock County Planning and Zoning Commission approved the rezoning of approximately 13 acres owned by the Ladners at Bayou Caddy to a Special Use Casino District at Thursday's meeting.

The property is adjacent to the family's Islander Marina. A dry dock storage facility will be relocated to another part of the marina property if the district gains gaming approval next month as expected, said Kirk Ladner.

The Marina's wet docks will remain intact, said Kirk Ladner, and additional slips will be added.

The Ladners did not present a site plan but said the project will include a hotel complex, casino boat, at Bayou Caddy, and a five story parking garage. Kirk said they hope to have the project completed at about the same time as the Silver Slipper casino project, slated to begin construction within weeks.

Preliminary plans include planned green areas, and upgrades to Lakeshore Rd. which the Ladners say will serve as the primary access to the complex. Access by Lakeshore Rd. would result in the least amount of disruption to local traffic, said the preliminary report, which is the family's goal.

Kirk also has proposed a hotel/casino project, with partner Ree Elliot at the foot of Poinset St. in Clermont Harbor. A decision on the approval of the rezoning of a 5-acre parcel at that location was put off yet again.

Commissioner C.A. Russ had to leave the meeting early and with the absence of Commissioner Mark Cumella due to illness, the board was left with less than enough members to vote on the matter.

In other business, Commissioners voted to deny permission to two property owners in Jourdan River Estates to build on lots that are 60 feet in width. County zoning requires that lots in R-1 districts be 75 feet wide. The lots adjoined one another on Helen Dr.

It's the law: Obey or you'll be sunk

Views From a Front Porch

by Paul Estronza
La Violette

laviolette@mail.data-sync.com
www.annabellepublishing.com

(I wrote this some time ago when they had just completed the concrete median barrier on the Bay Bridge. I never used it. Recent events however, indicate that the matter is still germane.)

It sounds like a simple concept: it's the law, obey it.

But this is sometimes hard to do. Archaic laws, for example, are sometimes absurd to follow. On the face of it, these laws are obsolete and should be removed from the books, but doing that removal is too much trouble and so they are ignored. But there are times it's not a law's obsolescence but that the law is countermand to a given situation. These are the times when to obey or enforce a law presents ethical and practical problems.

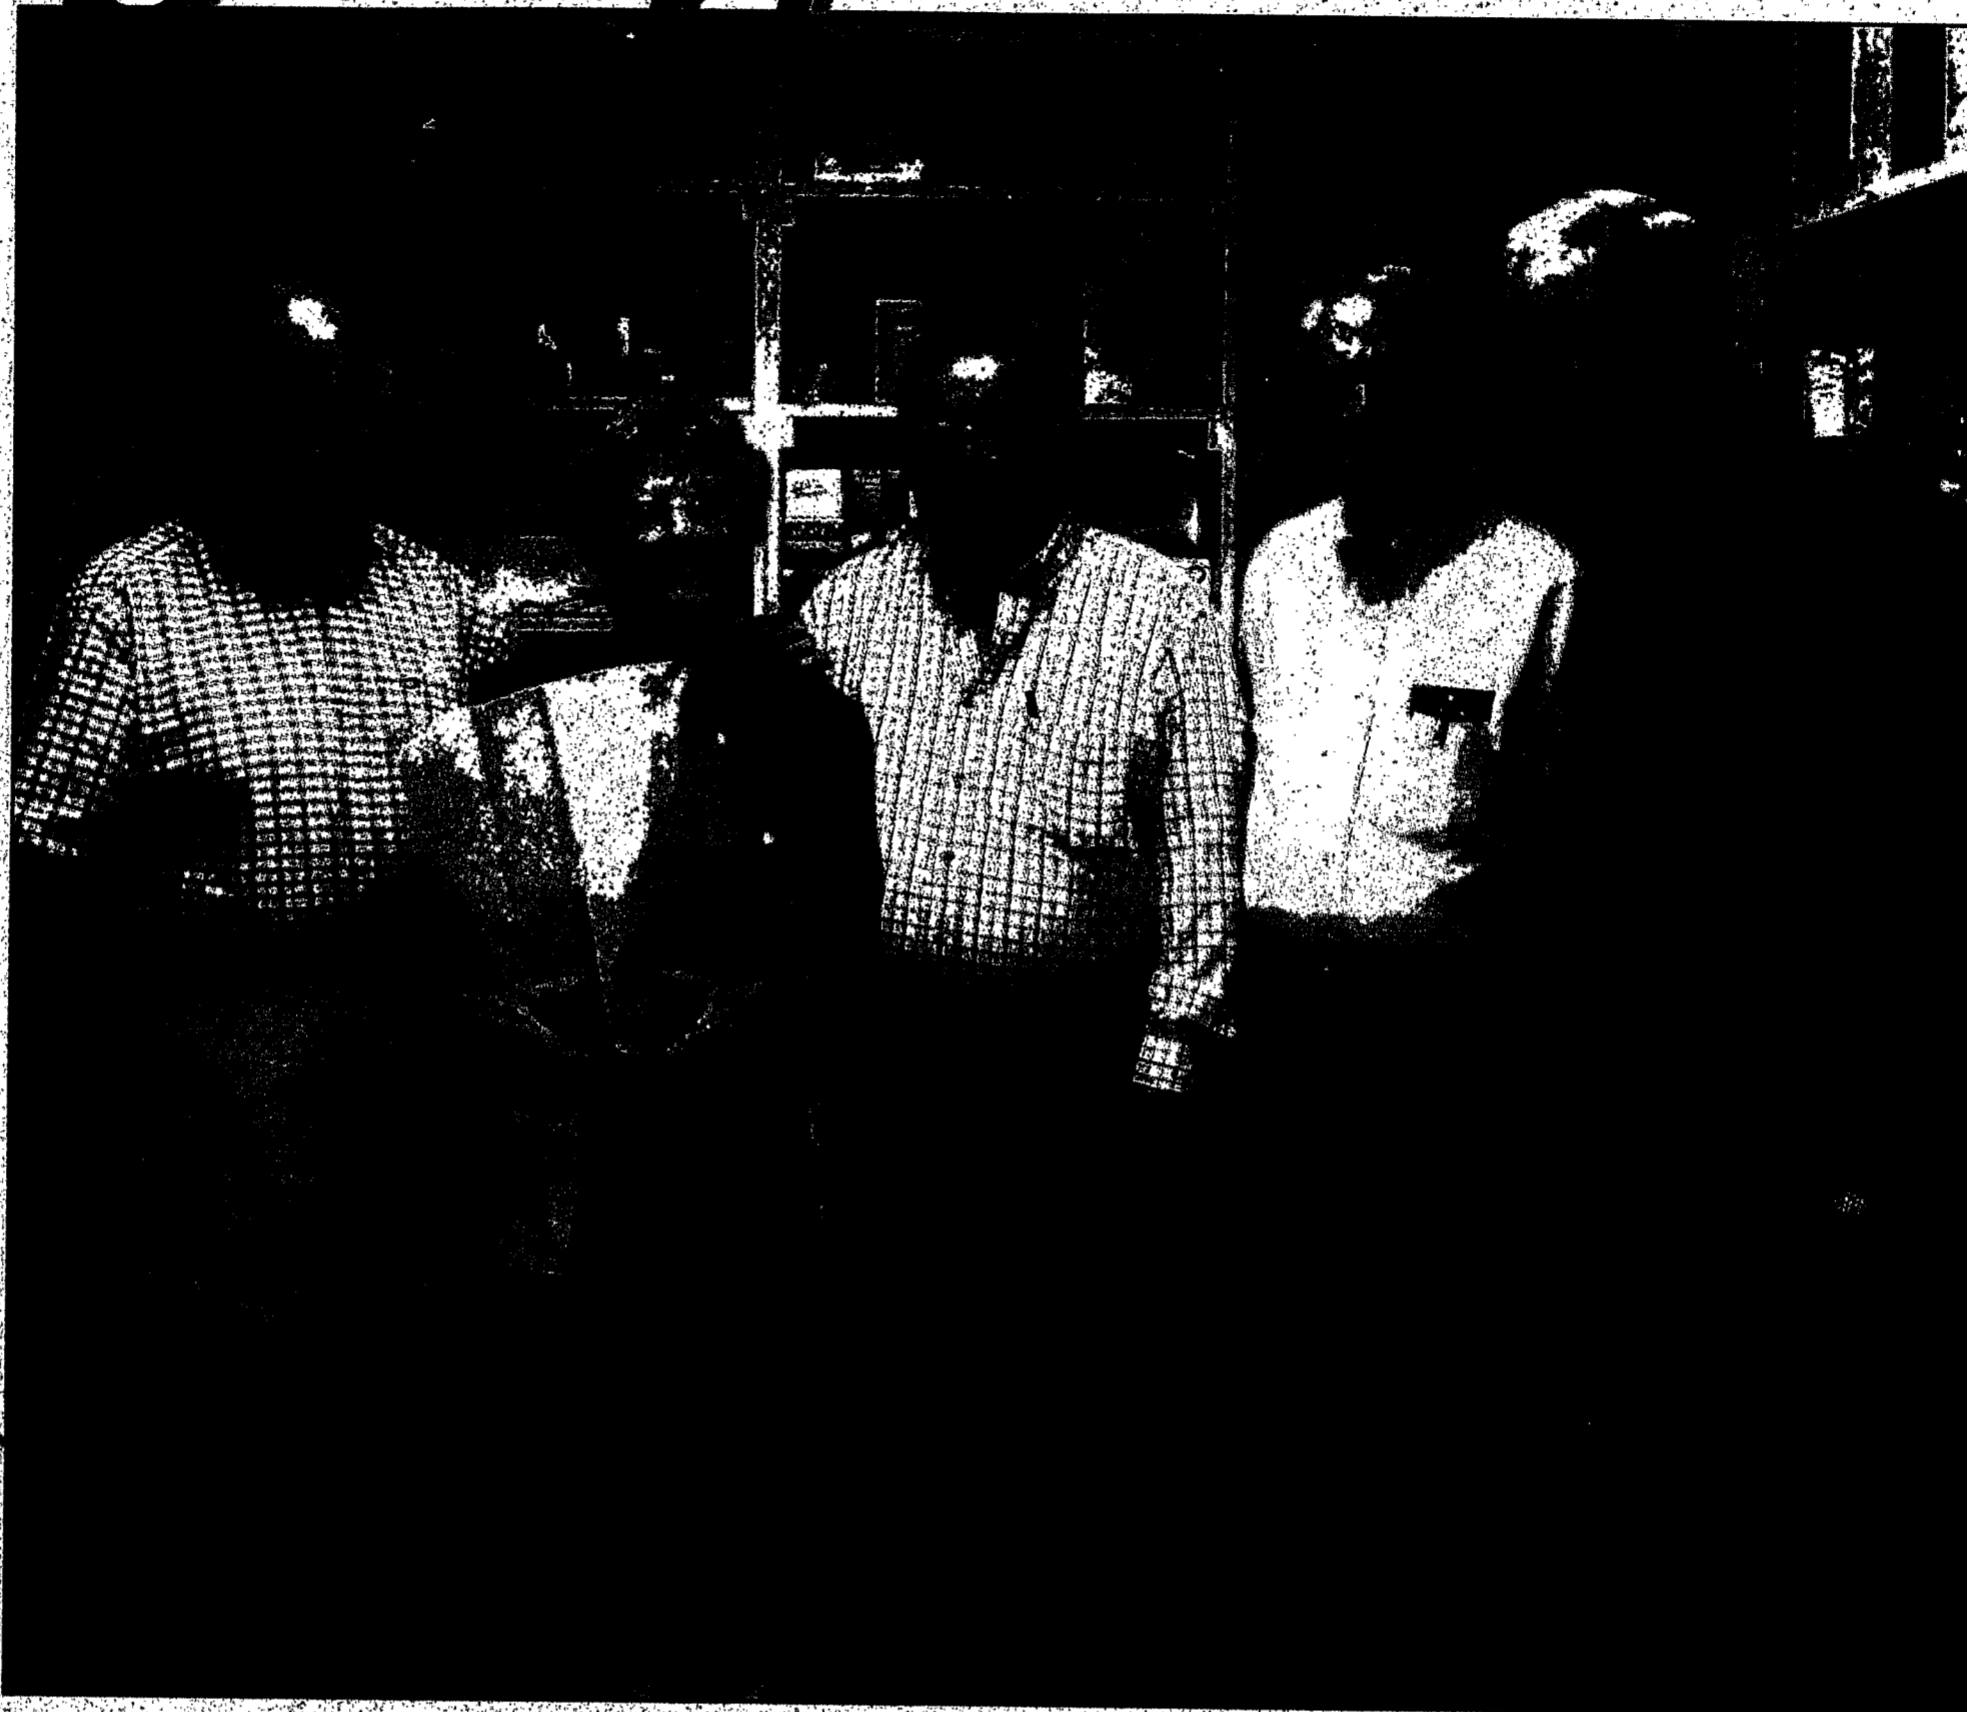

It is interesting that the approach to these situations often describes the general ethnic character of a group. Germans, with their passion for authority, believe that one must always obey the law, that the law is sacrosanct. Conversely, Italians believe that the only purpose of law is to allow people to get along with one other and ignore it if a situation doesn't fit. In Italy this approach seems to work best in their traffic. The English are very practical. They ask the question, "what is common usage?" and take it from there. Tradition seems then to take over and the phrase that a thing "is simply not done" is the operative restriction.

The French don't really have any feelings either way they feel that since the laws as we use them are based on someone's ideas who is not French, they ignore them and make their own set of rules, e.g., the Napoleonic Law. Since the only people in the US that follow this rather long-winded catalogue of human conduct are Louisianans, I will ignore them in this discussion.

As an American, I'm too close to say what our ethnic approach is to law. But I have seen in my walking

Hancock Food Pantry, area churches working to make holiday bright

BY BENNIE

It's that time of year again when families get together to enjoy holiday dinners and give thanks for the blessings they have had throughout the year. But some Hancock County families would not be able to afford holiday meals without a little help. Luckily, help is available. This year the Hancock County, Food Pantry is joining with St. Vincent de Paul and two area churches, Our Lady of the Gulf, and St. Clare Catholic Church, to ensure that 500 families will have a little brighter Thanksgiving holiday.

Both churches will be collecting food packages today to add to food baskets from the Food Pantry. Ten dollar vouchers will also be included with the baskets so that

Is your dog a good citizen? If not, there's help

On a recent beautiful autumn afternoon, nine local dogs and their owners showed they have what it takes to earn the American Kennel Club's Canine Good Citizen Award.

to encourage responsible dog ownership, and to recognize those owners who have achieved basic levels of training and socialization with their dogs. To earn the award, dogs and their owners must pass a ten-step test that demonstrates that the dog will obey basic obedience commands such as "Sit", "Down", and "Come", walk politely on a leash, and will allow a friendly stranger to approach and greet dog and owner. The testing procedure is designed to be enjoyable for dog and owner, you may encourage and praise the dog throughout the exercises. A dog must exhibit no aggressive or fearful behavior when near other dogs or people. Owners also sign a statement of responsible pet care. The test is given by an AKC approved and registered evaluator and any dog, pure-bred or mixed, is eligible to receive this award. THE WISHING TREE - Hancock North Central Elementary 3rd grade teacher Rebecca Firth (right) helps students in her class hang their wishes on the "wishing tree." Students in Rebecca Firth's 3rd grade class at Hancock North Central Elementary recently learned about elections and the voting process through a mock election for a mascot and the creation of a wishing tree. The class was given a choice of four mascots and was required to complete a ballot for the mascot that best fit their school. As part of the election process, results were tallied to select the most popular mascot. Following the election and to strengthen their writing skills, students completed an index card with several "wishes" for the United States. The laminated cards were then read aloud and hung on a sycamore tree in the school garden. The cards on the "wishing tree" can now be read by other students at the school and serve as a reminder of the 2004 election process.

Views -- be sunk

about, situations in which it appears all of the ethnic approaches I've listed above are brought into play.

The most delightful of these took place in a small town I was visiting in California. They were experiencing a severe drought. Things were bad. You couldn't wash your car, could only flush the toilet once a day and restaurants only gave you water when you demanded it and then with no ice. I never figured the ice connection, but then you must realize we are talking about Californians.

A small, rather elite vineyard had put in some young vines the previous year to my visit. The vines were at a critical stage in their growth and when their small reservoir dried up, the vines were on the verge of dying. Although just a few feet outside of the water board's district, the owners approached the local board with a desperate request for an emergency allocation of one thousand gallons of water to fill their reservoir. The board took into account the direness of the situation and approved the request, after all this was wine country and the loss of the promising strain of exceptional grapes would be a disaster. Word was passed to county workers to start laying three hundred feet of temporary pipe from the main water line to the vineyard's reservoir.

But the owners of dirty cars, the residents of houses with unflushed toilets, and the thirsty restaurant goers immediately raised a hue and cry. The next day's papers carried their outrage in bold headlines coupled with an announcement that the water board would hold an emergency hearing that afternoon. Meanwhile on a back page, there were pictures of temporary pipe being laid to the vineyard's reservoir.

The start of the next day's evening news on television carried the hearing live where each irate person was being given the opportunity to speak his/her piece to the water board. Every so often the screen would split and show live coverage of the completed pipeline, the county worker turning on the valve to release the water and the water flowing into the tiny reservoir. After an impassioned ten minutes of this, the news broadcast shifted to more important things: sports, weather, commercials. At the end of the show, the broadcast returned to the hearing where the water board chairman was stating that he and the other board members unanimously agreed with the complainants and that they were immediately rescinding their approval for water. Behind him, the board members were nodding their heads in agreement and in front of him the various speakers sat with broad smiles. Everyone appeared happy.

However, during this last showing the screen was again split to show the county worker turning off the water and other workers starting to disassemble the temporary pipe. The last shot was of the small vineyard's reservoir. It was filled to capacity.

We, I am happy to say are not beyond this wondrous duplicity. There are times when Mississippi politicians act like the old southerner who when asked his opinion on a controversial subject said, "Some of my friends are for it and some are against. I'm just going to say one thing on the subject and that is all I'm going to say. I'm with my friends."

We face a similar situation with the Bay Bridge right after they completed the solid median strip. The Mississippi Department of Transportation ruled that no one would be able to fish from the bridge. Too dangerous.

Well, that produced an uproar from people that had been fishing from the bridge without a serious accident since it was built after Camille some 30 years before. But MDOT stood firm. It is, they declared, the law. This law is a statute introduced by MDOT. This is the same MDOT that introduced the inflexible ruling that prevents us from beautifying Waveland. The law states that we can't put live oaks trees in our broad median strip nor within a hundred feet of the road, no matter how much we thought it would enhance the beauty of our city.

So they banned fishermen from ever coming back on the bridge. The fishermen grumbled but the MDOT stood firm. The grumbling got loud, very loud. Finally the MDOT announced in rather grandiose style that they had other more important things to do then enforce their no fishing law on the Bay Bridge. They would, they declared, let the City of Bay St. Louis authorities do it. And with that they moved on.

As to the City of Bay St. Louis, the authorities looked up in surprise and said, "What bridge?"

Pantry

families can buy a holiday ham, turkey, chicken or other main dish to add to their meal.

Food Pantry director Tom McCormick said that families with vouchers from the OLG Parish should plan to pick up their baskets on Monday; families with vouchers from St. Clare Parish should pick up their baskets on Tuesday; and all others should pick up their baskets on Wednesday. All baskets should be picked up between 9 a.m. and Noon.

The Food Pantry has been in existence since 1986 and was established to feed the needy of Hancock County. The number of people the Food Pantry has fed has doubled in the last five years, said McCormick and this year the pantry will feed more than 13,000 people.

Donations come from church, civic, business, and individual donations of food and dollars. The pantry is a United Way agency and run entirely by about 80 volunteers. About 98 percent of all cash donations go for buying food, said McCormick.

St. Vincent de Paul is a 160 year old institution of the Catholic Church. It has its beginnings in Paris and came in to being to help with the immediate needs of food, shelter, medicines or other. For the last two or three years the St. Vincent de Paul organizations of both OLG and St. Clare Parish have joined together with the Food Pantry to concentrate their efforts to help those in need in the county. By joining together the organizations feel they can reach more families who need their help.

The Food Pantry operates throughout the year, but is busiest around holidays. Donations are always welcome. To contact the Food Pantry to offer a donation or to volunteer call 228-467-2790.

nals or other cues. The test is being recognized as an excellent standard of responsible dog ownership by many communities across the country. Canine Good Citizens are welcomed in many apartment complexes that otherwise do not accept dogs or require large pet deposits, and some insurance companies with breed specific exclusions will cover dogs if they have passed this test. Working dogs, such as therapy, search and rescue, and assistance dogs must pass the test as part of their training. With anti-dog sentiment running high, and horrifying headlines of dog attacks a weekly occurrence, pet owners are obligated to ensure that their dog's behavior is exemplary. The Canine Good Citizen program is a great way to do this, and you'll both set an example for others to follow. Bay High broadcast journalists produce video study unit

Among the projects undertaken by Bay High School's Broadcast Journalism class, led by teacher Tricia Gill and her 20 students is development of a video study unit for children's author and puppeteer Cherie Schadler of Kiln. Gill is producing a videotape to be included in a study unit on watershed harmony distributed by the Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality.

Schadler and her company, Bayou Towne Productions, has written and produced a puppet production, Watershed Harmony, for Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality.

"Watershed Harmony presents a program for students that teaches the importance of caring for water quality," Laura Beiser, specialist for MDEQ said.

In order to reach a wider audience, Beiser and Schadler put together a self-sustaining study unit for teachers. Included in the plan was a taping of the puppet show. Schadler approached Gill — a neighbor, a freelance videographer and the broadcast journalism teacher at Bay High School — about preparing the video tape for the study unit.

"The project is an excellent example of 'real world' requirements for my broadcast journalism students," Gill said. "Not only do they have the actual work of filming the puppet show, they have to attend to the requirements and needs of their clients — in this case that is the author Cherie Schadler and the Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality."

"The study unit guide is an exciting way to educate students about water quality and non-point source pollution," Schadler said. "The unit will include hands-on activities and thought provoking games, to reinforce responsibility for one of our most necessary resources. Students who complete the unit study will discover and learn how to protect the watershed in their own community."

All activities in the study meet with national science standards and are geared to the fourth and fifth grade levels.

Schools, libraries and other educational groups wishing to receive the study unit or to book a live showing of Watershed Harmony, may contact Bayou Towne Productions at (228) 586-0479 or call Laura Beiser at (601) 961-5171.

Live and love until the end of time

With fire-and-brimstone fulminations and dire predictions from various Scripture readings, the Church does its annual introduction of the end of the liturgical year. Of course, this ending likewise sets us up for the beginning of the next liturgical year.

"When you hear of wars and insurrections, do not be terrified, for such things must happen first, but it will not immediately be the end."

"Nation will rise against nation," Jesus warned, "and kingdom against kingdom. There will be powerful earthquakes, famines and plagues from place to place; and awesome sights and mighty signs will come from the sky." (Luke 21:9-11)

This annual ritual has always been a perennial preoccupation for, it would seem, most people at a number of times during the year. How often have you heard, or how often have you yourself said that these are the last times of Planet Earth?

"We are living in the last times," people frequently say. "There is so much evil being done on earth that God is about to step in and put an end to all this."

Just look at the weather!" it is often said. "Just as the Bible says, the weather is so mixed up that we can no longer tell one season from another. All those rockets shot into space are causing this, aggravated by very dirty industrial emissions and pollution. There is a swift end coming to all this. Yes, this world will not be around much longer." Earthquakes aplenty are definitely rattling and shaking all around us as they have been down through the centuries. In fact, there have been so many enormous quakes through all of history that the dire statements of Jesus seem to be a bit ambiguous.

This year alone, of the scores of earthquakes recorded around the world, teeth-rattling, destructive quakes struck Japan twice, Chile, Indonesia, the Solomon Islands, Colombia, New Britain and several other places around the notorious Pacific Rim.

Some of those earthquakes, such as the two off Japan, set in motion the dreaded, deadly tsunamis whose sometimes hardly noticed walls of water travel so fast that they can traverse the entire Pacific Ocean in about ten hours. As they approach the coast, those barely perceptible walls rise at times to mountainous heights of more than ninety feet.

The end time of the world becomes an urgent part of conversation whenever a huge earthquake rocks some section of the planet: Shaanxi, China on January 24, 1556, killing 830,000; Calcutta, India on October 11, 1737, killing 300,000.

Far less destructive of life but much more impressive for us Americans were our local quakes: San Francisco on April 18, 1906, killing 503; Oakland on October 17, 1989, killing 62 and disrupting the World Series.

More stark and numbing was the great hurricane of Galveston, Texas which killed 8,000 people on September 8, 1900. Attention-getting and frightful was the quadruple hammer of hurricanes to rattle the Florida Peninsula within a matter of six weeks.

Completely apocalyptic was the eruption of Mt. Tambora in Indonesia on April 10, 1815 which killed 22,000, but, more ominously, blew ashes which hung up in the earth's atmosphere for four years and created the illusion of the city of Boston on fire.

Almost as spectacular was the eruption of Krakatau in Indonesia on August 26, 1883 which killed 36,000 and was heard some 3,000 miles away. Blowing to smithereens one cubic mile of solid rock near its peak, Krakatau painted a preview of the picture painted by St. Peter in chapter 3:10 of his second letter:

"But the day of the Lord will come like a thief, and then the heavens will pass away with a mighty roar and the elements will be dissolved by fire, and the earth and everything done on it will be found out."

Closer to home, Mt. St. Helens in Washington blew its top on May 18, 1980, killing 57 people and destroying millions of trees. Fallout from the eruption in the form of ashes fell on many states surrounding the brooding, smoking mountain.

As dramatic and awesome as all the above-mentioned spectacles of nature are, they pale by comparison to the real, the personal end time of the world. This real, personal end time is embodied in our dear ones who, one by one, move on to be with God.

Especially at this time of the year, beginning with All Saints Day when we revere and commemorate our dear ancestors in the Communion of all the saints, our tender thoughts and affections turn in the direction of the people closest to us on the earth.

One such person, Pauline Sweet Smith, was the latest dear one from my kin to go on to God. Just two years ago, Pauline was in her native Lake Charles, Louisiana to bury her brother Timothy, her senior by one year. Now it is her turn to join her brother in paradise.

Still relatively young at 61, Pauline was unable to defeat a blood clot/stroke disorder which afflicted her. Try as she might, she finally succumbed to the inevitable.

Since I was a 13-year-old boy when she was born, Pauline came to look upon me and treat me like her big brother. It was a precious relationship which was greatly enhanced by her joyful, affectionate personality. My siblings and I had many a laugh and many a light moment from Pauline's conversations, mannerisms and antics.

In all candor, one does not feel comfortable, completely at ease with everyone, not even relatives. Happily, we did feel comfortable and at ease with Pauline. She was really a congenial cousin, a good person, a solid Christian lady who was gentle on our minds.

Her mother, Gladys Petrie Sweet, is the daughter of Dupre Petrie, my mother's oldest brother. Now the matriarch of the family, Gladys is the living link with her parents Dupre and Pauline, her husband Eddie, and her children Timothy, Pauline, Lawrence and David.

From All Saints Day, through Thanksgiving Day, through Christmas Day and on through the year, we experience how blessed and cherished a privilege it is to have ties of genealogy and faith in our loving Creator who gave us the amazing gifts of kith and kin.

Reflections

on Life

by Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

Scripture Says...

By Ed Young

God made each and every one of us

"And the Lord formed man of the dust of the ground and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living soul." Gen. 2:7

"And now saith the Lord who formed me from the womb to be his servant." Isaiah 49:5

Almighty God has created us just as we are; different in appearance, different in a manner and various.

Out of the Throne of God came the creation of all things. John 1:3

God doesn't make any mistakes. So who are we to pass judgment how a person looks and has a different mannerism.

Jesus in his ministry received people of all walks of life to meet their needs. We should do the same. Encouragement goes a long way.

The poor are generally looked down on. The rich are envied. The disfigured are made fun of, and the mentally ill are terribly misunderstood. Man looks on the outward appearance. God looks on the heart. He sees the real us.

We all have an opportunity every day to greet someone with kindness and a smile.

So maybe, just maybe, we might realize this is a God-created person who God wants to share an eternity with.

"Did not He who made me in the womb make you also?"

To God's name give glory this Thanksgiving

When most of us think of Thanksgiving, we think of the four-day weekend. We think of family gatherings, long conversations catching up on family activities and a festive meal. But Thanksgiving is a lot more. It is a time set aside to give thanks to God. But so many folks ignore God in everyday life, it is only natural to ignore Him on Thanksgiving. After all, if we've made it big on the job or had a successful football season, isn't it because we've met the challenge? What about the food, clothing, housing and cars we have? One man I talked with about these things reminded me that he earned all that he had. But the Bible tells us that we should give thanks to God for these benefits. Psalm 115:1 says, "Not to us, O Lord, not to us, But to Thy name give glory Because of Thy lovingkindness, because of Thy truth." This Psalm says that God is full of lovingkindness and truth. If you just think about it for a moment, you realize that the degree of health you have comes from God. For example, if you have the strength to work and earn a fair wage, God has given it to you. It could be much different. God is a master craftsman. He made this universe in such a way that people like us could study it and stand in awe of its beauty and majesty. Not only so, God has crafted a way of salvation. Human beings have a sin problem. But God crafted a remedy for this sin problem. His name is Jesus Christ.

Those who trust in Christ for the forgiveness of their sins, see the beauty of the Bible and the beauty of Christ's death on the cross. They see the beauty of God and the beauty of His universe. They sing these words, "Not to us, O Lord, not to us, But to Thy name give glory. Because of Thy lovingkindness, because of Thy truth."

Gulf Coast Messiah Chorus presents four Christmas concerts

The performances will include choral and solo selections from George F. Handel's oratorio, MESSIAH. Hilda Barnes will direct the chorus accompanied by a chamber orchestra.

Christmas selections at the beginning of each concert. The Long Beach High School Madrigal Singers, under the direction of Dianne Holbert, will sing at St. Paul Catholic Church on Thursday evening. The Bay High School Chorus, under the direction of Kristie Linton, will sing at the Saenger Theatre on Saturday night.

The Gulfport High School Chorus, under the direction of Nikki Melvin, will sing at the Jeff Davis Auditorium on Friday night. And the adult choir of the Moss Point First Baptist Church, under the direction of Tracy Smith, will open the Sunday afternoon concert.

Handel's beloved MESSIAH, composed in the early 1740s, has a long performance history.

It was first performed in London where many people were deeply religious and considered theater and this type of work blasphemous. Later, after a free hospital performance, its popularity began to rise.

The MESSIAH has met with wide and enduring response and is the only work of its kind to see a continued popularity through the centuries.

The Gulf Coast Messiah Chorus, in its fifty-second year of performances, is comprised of about 100 active singers from across the Gulf Coast.

The concerts are presented at widespread venues along the coast to reach area audiences.

The public is cordially invited to the free performances. Donations are gratefully accepted.

Additional information is available on the Chorus website: <http://www.gold-inc.com/messiah/>. Please contact Ed Cake at (228) 324-9292 for other information.

Tickets are available for $24.95, $29.95 and $34.95 by calling the Casino Magic Box Office at 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 or through any Ticketmaster outlet.

Born in Springhill, Nova Scotia in June of 1945 to Dr. Carson and Marion Murray, Anne was the only daughter amongst five sons. Sports and music were family pastimes so it was no surprise when Anne attended the University of New Brunswick and graduated in 1966 with a degree in Physical Education.

After a year of teaching in PEI and a summer working with CBC's Halifax based on Singalong Jubilee, Murray took a leap of faith. She left her secure job to join the television cast full time; a pivotal decision and one that would forever change her life.

In 1968 she headed to Toronto to record her first album What About Me. One year later, she released the follow-up album, This Way Is My Way. That album included "Snowbird" and in 1970 Anne Murray would become the first Canadian solo female artist to ever receive an American Gold award.

Anne Murray

Hits such as "Danny's Song," "You Needed Me," "Could I Have This Dance," "Love Song" "Just Another Woman in Love," and "Shadows In the Moonlight" soon followed, solidifying Murray's place in music history.

Throughout her distinguished 36-year career, the four-time Grammy award winner has effortlessly crossed genre lines from pop to country to adult contemporary. Murray has received three American Music Awards and countless country music awards.

She is currently in the studio working on a new CD of standards from the 40's.

A world-class singer and entertainer, Anne Murray continues to thrill audiences throughout North America with a voice as legendary as the songs she sings. Don't miss Anne Murray's "What A Wonderful Christmas" at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis December, 9th -12th! Must be at least 21 to attend.

PBS salutes a national treasure in uplifting 'America's Choir'

By John Crook
© Zap2it

PBS pays tribute to a towering musical institution that has become part of the national bedrock in "America's Choir: The Story of the Mormon Tabernacle Choir," a fascinating and uplifting one-hour documentary premiering Thursday, Nov. 25 (check local listings). Veteran newsman Walter Cronkite hosts the telecast, which takes audiences from the choir's organization by Mormon pioneers in 1847 through more recent milestones such as its appearance at the 2002 Olympic Winter Games and its acceptance of a National Medal of Arts in 2003. Footage from a variety of concerts is featured, including one in which mezzo-soprano Frederica von Stade and baritone Bryn Terfel sang with the choir.

Cronkite, 88, is a singularly appropriate host for this special. He's been a guest conductor of the choir, and he remembers listening to radio broadcasts of the group with his family in the late 1920s.

"We had a kind of closeness to the choir because we lived in Kansas City back then, and the church had an offshoot that was in Independence, Mo., and that choir was on our local radio," Cronkite recalls. "I was always somewhat confused as a child as to which was the 'dominant' choir, because they both were exceedingly good."

Many years later, Cronkite jumped at an invitation to conduct the choir in a Christmas concert commemorating the first Christmas of World War I.

"That night (in 1914), the British and the Germans crawled out of their foxholes and met in the horrors of No Man's Land, with bodies lying around them, and celebrated Christmas together, singing one another's songs," Cronkite explains. "The concert captured that back-and-forth singing very affectingly. It was just incredible. They filled the hall for four performances at Christmastime, this huge, huge, three-tiered space."

"I was thrilled - well, I hate that word, because it makes me sound like a 16-year-old, doesn't it?" he adds dryly. "But I certainly was exceedingly pleased when I was invited."

Jimmy Kimmel

By Kate O'Hare

Late-night talk show host Jimmy Kimmel is beginning his workday late in the afternoon in Los Angeles. But he has a temporary handicap.

"We have a loud audience," he says, "probably the loudest. Right now I'm deaf in one ear, and I'm wondering if that has anything to do with it."

Turns out it's a neglected ear infection, but the young crowds for ABC's "Jimmy Kimmel Live" do get pretty worked up.

All that enthusiasm has not been for naught, as the show, which premiered after the Super Bowl in 2003, was recently renewed through early 2005.

"I have a pact with Satan," Kimmel says. "I'm not supposed to talk about it, but suffice it to say that I have to beat him in a battle of fiddling, or else he takes my soul."

"You want to know really what it is? They do a lot of research, and sometimes research is bad, and sometimes it turns out good. In my case, the 11 lunatics that decided to go to a focus group on a Thursday night in Philadelphia while it was pouring rain really liked me, so everybody else likes me as a result."

Kimmel manages to keep out of the late-night talk wars that often result in sniping among Jay and Dave and Conan. "It's because I'm an insignificant flea on their backs, that's why," Kimmel explains. "I've been trying to start a fight with Fred Savage, but he won't have any of it."

As to his goals, Kimmel says, "I just hope to be the next Merv Griffin. I want to get very rich and very fat and maybe own a hotel."

Although he hasn't achieved any of those goals quite yet, Kimmel did manage to put one over the wall at last July's All-Star Legends and Celebrities Softball Game, held in conjunction with Major League Baseball's 75th All-Star Game.

"As you may have seen by my line-drive home run over the center-field fence," Kimmel says, "I've got quite a stick. Did you see that? I don't like to mention it to people, but thanks for asking."

Birthplace: Brooklyn, N.Y., on Nov. 13, 1967, 10 years after the Brooklyn Dodgers moved west. Kimmel and his family moved west as well, and Kimmel was raised in Las Vegas, but was a Los Angeles Dodgers fan as a kid.

Family ties: A father of two, Kimmel likes to keep his family close. His cousin, Sal Iacono, appears on his shows; as does his "Uncle Frank" Polanza. Iacono also took over Kimmel's co-hosting job on "Win Ben Stein's Money."

Baseball stats: A self-proclaimed "Yankee hater," Kimmel currently roots for the New York Mets.

NBC special, DVD release inspire 'Seinfeld' top 7 episode list

By George Dickie
© Zap2it

It's been more than six years since Jerry, George, Kramer, Elaine, and the much-celebrated "show about nothing" disappeared from the NBC schedule. But "Seinfeld" has hardly been forgotten.

Phrases such as "yada yada yada," "spongworthy," and "no soup for you" have permeated the American vernacular. "Seinfeld" repeats abound in syndication, and this week, a DVD set featuring the series' first three seasons is due to be released.

Marking the occasion is a Thanksgiving-night telecast of "The Seinfeld Story," a new NBC special that features classic clips and interviews with cast members Jerry Seinfeld, Jason Alexander, Michael Richards and Julia Louis-Dreyfus, and co-creator/executive producer Larry David. It concentrates on the first four seasons, a time when the show found the unique voice that would later earn it a total of 10 Emmy Awards and 70 nominations and make it perhaps the definitive show of the 1990s.

And what are the definitive episodes of this definitive series? Our staff of inveterate "Seinfeld" fans has selected what we think are the top 7 episodes of this landmark 1990-98 series. In chronological order, they are:

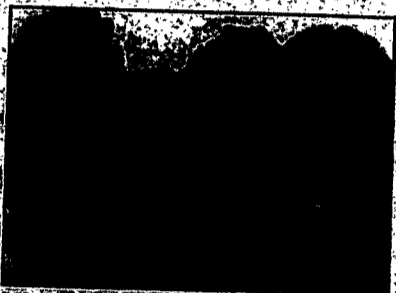

"The Boyfriend" (Original Aired: 2/12/92). Elaine dates former major league pitcher Keith Hernandez while Jerry bums around with him as a pal. Soon jealousy develops between Elaine and Jerry. Also, George tries to get out of hot water with the unemployment office using the bogus character Art Vandelay as an employment reference, pairing it with Jerry's phone number. Doesn't fly. Memorable quote (Jerry): "And you want to be my latex salesman."

"The Trip" (OAD 8/12 and 8/18/92). Jerry, George and Kramer are in Hollywood while Jerry appears on "The Tonight Show." Along the way, Kramer somehow gets mistaken for a serial killer plaguing the area, who in the end turns out to be a dubious character played by superb, dubious character actor Clint Howard. Ron's brother. The scene where the K-man gets interrogated by L.A. police is the character at its funniest.

"The Contest" (OAD 11/18/92). The much-talked-about... um... er... self-gratification episode... but you won't hear the exact word used once in the dialogue. All four friends participate in the little game of self-control, even Elaine, though at slightly skewed odds. Also, Elaine engages in a mutual flirtation with JFK Jr. at the local health club, which winds up going nowhere for her, but does wonders for Jerry's virginal girlfriend, Maria (Jane Leeves). Memorable quote (Jerry): "Are you master of your domain?"

"The Outing" (OAD 2/11/93). A reporter (Paula Marshall) from a local college newspaper does a profile of Jerry, and surmises through a series of misunderstandings that Jerry and George are a couple - not that there's anything wrong with that. Of course, it doesn't help that George tries to end a relationship using that very reason. Memorable quote (George): "I'm very, very gay... Extraordinarily gay. Steeped in gayness."

"The Hamptons" (OAD 5/12/94). The gang spends the weekend at the beach house of some friends to finally see their baby, which turns out to be the ugliest thing they've ever laid eyes on. Everyone except George sees his girlfriend sunbathing topless, while Jerry's date catches an eyeful of a mortified George in a state of "shrinkage." Kramer gets busted for poaching lobsters. Memorable quote (Jerry): "Boy, a little too much chlorine in that gene pool."

"The Opposite" (OAD 5/19/94). Realizing everything he has ever done in his life is wrong, George resolves to do the opposite of what he normally would with astounding results. Conversely, Elaine hits a run of bad luck, while Jerry always seems to break even. Kramer appears on "Live With Regis and Kathie Lee," pushing his coffee-table book about coffee tables. Memorable quote (George): "Bald men with no jobs and no money who live with their parents don't approach strange women."

"The Soup Nazi" (OAD 11/2/95). Probably the most famous "Seinfeld" episode of all, a local soup chef (Larry Thomas) bullies and intimidates his clientele, who readily accept it as a small price to pay for his extraordinary creations. Even Kramer insists his friend is just a misunderstood artist. Not Elaine, however, who earns herself an extended banishment from his shop with a minor faux pas. Memorable quote (Soup Nazi): "No soup for you!"

Why Charlotte Ross stopped feeling 'Blue'

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q Why was Charlotte Ross taken off "NYPD Blue"? She was so good on the show. Grace Ann Phillips, North Carolina.

A Perhaps no other single question has filled our mailbox more in recent weeks, so we'd better take care of this one for the many writers who clearly have been wondering. Ross left the ABC show to have her first child, son Maxwell, who was born in March. When she opted not to return, the producers sought an actress to play a replacement police officer, Jessalyn Gilsig. ("Nip/Tuck" was hired for last season's final episodes; then Bonnie Somerville ("Friends") got the call for the drama's current - and last - year.

Although Ross is no longer visible on "Blue," verbal references to her character, Connie, are still made, especially by husband Andy Sipowicz (Dennis Franz). I haven't seen or heard anything about "Star Trek: Enterprise" lately. Please tell me it's not gone for good! -R. Mitchell in Denver

Q Enterpriser! latly. Please tell me it's not gone for good! -R. Mitchell in Denver

Charlotte Ross

A Just the question UPN wants to hear! The latest "Trek" franchise had been slated to remain on Wednesdays this season, but at the last minute, the network switched it to Fridays. Maybe that's why you haven't found it.

Q I am sure Christopher Reeve was in a soap opera before he became a movie star, but I can't remember which one. Can you help me? -P.V. in Arizona

A The late actor, filmmaker and activist spent two years as Ben Harper on the CBS serial "Love of Life" in the mid-1970s. He went on to a bit part in the 1978 submarine drama "Gray Lady Down," then his next film - something called "Superman" - changed his career and life.

Q Are Anthony and Jonathan LaPaglia related? Possibly brothers? Via e-mail

A It's much more than "possibly." Indeed, they are siblings. CBS press parties must have been fun for them while Jonathan was on "The District," since he could rendezvous there with "Without a Trace" star Anthony.

Lesli Kay takes a different 'Turn'

Lesli Kay

By Paulette Cohn
© Zap2it

After seven years as Molly on "As the World Turns," Lesli Kay asked the producers to release her from her contract so she could audition for a role on "General Hospital." It was a happy surprise when they did, but also a gamble on her part.

"When you let your employers know that you want to leave, of course, you are putting yourself on the line," says the actress, who now plays Lois on "GH."

Kay's decision to relocate to the West Coast was made out of love for her husband, Keith Coulouris (ex-Kelth, "One Life to Live," ex-David, "ATWT"), who had more career opportunities in Los Angeles.

"I just couldn't imagine Keith being 50 or 55 years old and telling his kids (the couple have one son, Jackson) what coulda, shoulda been for him," she explains.

Kay, who says she is happy anywhere that her family is happy and that she has a job, laughingly adds, "In January, I am going to love L.A. a lot more than New York."

The transition has also been an easy one for many fans, who think Kay strongly resembles Rena Sofer, who left the role of Lois in 1998 after five years.

"The actress who played her daughter thinks I do," she admits, "but I don't think we look alike. There are similarities: dark hair, blue eyes and a Russian background."

Dear Paulette: I'm sure I'm not the only one confused by the relationships of the Webbers on "GH." Heather Webber seems to be Steven's mother, but not Elizabeth's, but he is Elizabeth's brother. Who is Elizabeth's mother? Are Rick and Jeff brothers? And Laura Webber? -Sincerely, Elizabeth A., Lafayette, La.

Dear Reader: According to the "GH" family tree, Lars Webber and his wife, Helene, had three children: two biological (Trent and Rick) and one adopted (Jeff). Steven's mother is Heather, who was married to Jeff, but Elizabeth's mother, who was also married to Jeff, is unknown. So Steven and Elizabeth are half brother and sister, as they share the same father, Laura, who became a Webber, is actually Lesley Williams' daughter from a relationship before Lesley married Rick.

The truth comes out in the new 90-minute episode "Finale," as Chrissy confesses to her family that she didn't win the lottery after all. Given that the "rich" Chrissy wasn't a very pleasant person, her loved ones may be relieved to learn she's still the same sweet young woman she was before the "win"—that is, if they can get over the fact that she tricked them. Ed McMahon and George Grzy ("The Weakest Link") make appearances.

Viewers will see how one is built, equipped and tested before being deployed for duty.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

Judging Amy

Amy (Amy Brenneman) is only trying to be helpful, but Donna (Jillian Armenante) doesn't see it that way in the new episode "Order and Chaos." Donna is in Amy's courtroom representing a 13-year-old accused murderer, and since it's her first time defending a minor, Amy tries to guide things along, which Donna interprets as controlling. Maxine (Tyne Daly) loses control with a surly teen and gets some involuntary time off.

7 p.m. on 4-CBS

NCIS

8:30 p.m. on 6-NBC

Unfortunately, father and son have been estranged for some time, and J.D.'s interference causes more problems than it solves. Sarah Chalke and Donald Faison also star.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order: Special Victims Unit

A professor (guest star Billy Campbell, "Once and Again") is accused of sexual assault by a student in the new episode "Doubt." He's willing to cooperate fully, even offering to have his DNA tested. Wednesday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

That '70s Show

Kitty (Debra Jo Rupp) wants the gang all here for Thanksgiving in the new episode "You Can't Always Get What You Want." So she's not thrilled to discover that Eric (Topher Grace) would rather attend a Styx concert, and Hyde (Danny Masterson) will be at his store's grand opening. Tim Reid makes another appearance as Hyde's father.

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

The Bachelor

Which of the last ladies standing will be reeled in, and who'll get thrown back? Another season of the reality series wraps up with tab fisherman Byron Velvick introducing the two finalists to his folks, meeting theirs, then taking each woman on one last date and making his selection. For the one who leaves without a rose, well, there are plenty of other fish in the sea.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Movie: A Walk to Remember

Surprisingly potent at the box office, thanks largely to fans of its young stars, this 2002 drama based on the Nicholas Sparks novel casts Shane West ("Once and Again") as a popular athlete who finds love with someone unexpected. He has to rely on a sheltered classmate—a minister's daughter (singer Mandy Moore, who also performs on the soundtrack)—for school help, then finds himself falling for her.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC

Tim McGraw: Here and Now

Fans of country superstar Tim McGraw wouldn't mind hearing his music "Over and Over," to borrow the title of his collaboration with rapper Nelly. That number is one of those featured in this one-hour concert special, which also finds McGraw singing a duet with wife and fellow country star Faith Hill. Much of the performance footage is taken from a pair of recent concerts in Green Bay, Wis.

7:30 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Quintuplets

Sibling rivalry isn't limited to the younger generation of Chases when Bob's (Andy Richter) brother, Steve (guest star Jason Priestley, "Tri Calling"), comes to visit in the new episode "Thanksgiving Day Charade." Steve is a sports agent with an eye for the ladies, and his presence soon lands Bob in trouble. Olympic gold medal-winning swimmer Amanda Beard also guest stars.

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Kelly, Ruben & Fantasia: Home for Christmas

The first-place finishers from the first three seasons of "American Idol" gather to "jump-start" viewers' Christmas spirit in this new Thanksgiving Eve special. Expect lots of old favorite sea-sonal songs from the prize-winning pipes of Kelly Clarkson, Ruben Studdard and Fantasia Barrino, all of whom have compact discs coming out this month. Studdard's is a holiday-themed effort called "I Need an Angel."

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

The West Wing

The White House tries to contain negative reaction to the deaths of U.S. troops in an attack on the peacekeeping compound in the new episode "The Dover Test." There's one person the staff can't silence, however: the father of one of the fallen soldiers, who becomes an outspoken critic of the entire mission. Rep. Santos (Jimmy Smits) proves himself a clever politician when it comes to getting a favored bill passed. Martin Sheen also stars.

8 p.m. on 54-UPN

Kevin Hill

You know what they say about dancing. It could lead to... a broken engagement. A dance instructor is Kevin and Nicolette's (Taye Diggs, Christina Hendricks) newest client in this new episode. A student is claiming that the steamy moves she learned from the teacher caused her fiancé to walk out. Michael Michele and Jon Seda also star.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order

Four pedestrians are gunned down on a sidewalk in the new episode "All in the Family." Fontana and Green (Dennis Farina, Jesse L. Martin) discover one of the victims had ties to Russian organized crime—and was helping the feds. The killers are found, but issues of jurisdiction and religion make things difficult for McCoy (Sam Waterston). Merv's guest stars.

Dog Show
Football isn't the only competition on television on Thanksgiving anymore. For those who prefer pets to punts, John O'Hurley ("Seinfeld") hosts this two-hour special from Philadelphia, where the local kennel club puts on one of the oldest and most prestigious dog shows in the country. David Frei, a fixture on the popular Westminster Kennel Club dog show telecast, offers commentary.

7 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX
Movie: Spider-Man
The Marvel comic book comes to life in this 2002 adventure starring Tobey Maguire as high-schooler Peter Parker, who is bitten by a radioactive spider and acquires superpowers. But as any Spidey fan knows, the socially inept Parker has a rough time coming to terms with his new abilities, which indirectly cause a family tragedy. Rosemary Harris and Cliff Robertson play Peter's aunt and uncle, with Kirsten Dunst as the girl he loves.

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC
A Charlie Brown Thanksgiving
Though the ever-hapless Charlie Brown has good intentions in trying to arrange a holiday feast for his friends, the meal turns out to be a near-disaster when Snoopy and Woodstock are left in charge of supplying the food. Marjorie Mattingly comes to the rescue in this charming holiday perennial from 1973.

7 p.m. on ESPN
College Football
The Big East championship and an automatic entry into a Bowl Championship Series game could be at stake tonight when West Virginia visits Pittsburgh. The Mountaineers' multifaceted rushing attack is triggered by Rasheed Marshall, who last month became the Big East's all-time leading rusher among quarterbacks and backs. Jason Colson and Kay-Jay Harris: The talk in the Steel City has been how junior QB Tyler Palko has energized the Panthers in recent weeks.

Zoe McLellan

7 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX
Movie: Mr. Deeds

Adam Sandler reworks the film classic "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" to fit his comedic persona in this 2002 update. He plays a bumpkin who inherits a media empire and leaves his pizza parlor to assume a more lavish lifestyle. Of course, there are people determined to get him out of the picture as quickly as possible. Winona Ryder appears as a TV reporter who wants to do a story on him. John Turturro is a riot as Deeds' new manservant.

8 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC
Hope & Faith

Robert Wagner plays Hope and Faith's dad in the new episode, "9021-Uh-Oh." Thanksgiving has the family remembering the Turkey Day when Faith (Kelly Ripa) "borrowed" the home of Brian Austin Green ("Beverly Hills, 90210") so her judgmental mom would think she was doing well in Hollywood. She'd have pulled it off, too, if Green hadn't shown up. Cheryl Ladd appears in the flashback as the girls' mother. Faith Ford also stars.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS
JAG

Petty Officer Coates (Zoe McLellan) doesn't exactly have a squeaky-clean past, and she gets a blast from it in the new episode "There Goes the Neighborhood." An old friend of hers comes for a visit, and the next thing she knows, she's facing a murder charge. David James Elliott and Catherine Bell also star.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

Tom Brokaw Retrospective
Less than a week before his scheduled final departure from the chief anchor's chair, Tom Brokaw's home network pays tribute to its elder news statesman. Brokaw's career has more than enough great moments to fill two hours; to name just a couple, he was the only network anchor to report live from the fall of the Berlin Wall, and the first to get an exclusive one-on-one interview with then-Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

8 p.m. on TBS

Movie: Galaxy Quest
"Galaxy Quest" has been off the air for years, but fan conventions have been keeping the sci-fi series' cast busy. At one such event, the stars see nothing unusual in one particular group of costume-clad conventioners. But wait until they find out these are real aliens, who think the "Galaxy Quest" footage they've been watching is actual history. Tim Allen, Sigourney Weaver and Tony Shalhoub star in this 1999 comedy.

8:30 p.m. on
26-ABC on 13-ABC

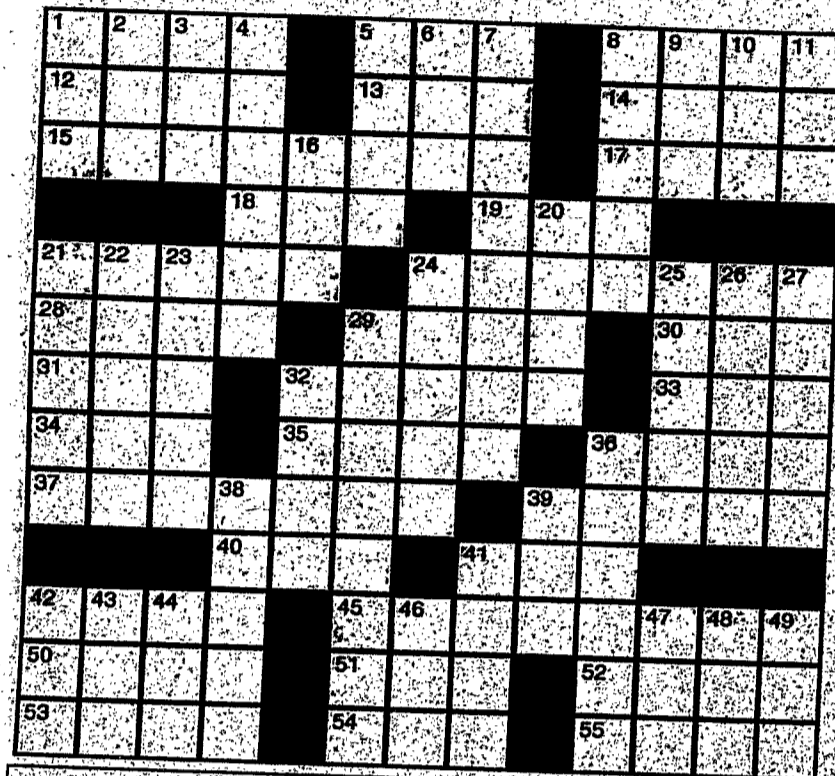

Less Than Perfect

Owen (Andy Dick) has two mommies, who both make themselves at home at GNB in the new episode "Mom's the Word." Judy (guest star Joanna Kerns) gives Will (Eric Roberts) relationship advice, while Judith (guest star Valerie Harper) plays party animal and encourages Carl and Ramona (Will Sasso, Sherri Shepherd) to do the same. A mysterious death ruins Lydia's (Andrea Parker) first Thanksgiving with Jeb's (Patrick Warburton) family.

Fantasia Barrino (left) won't be the only "American Idol" on her first holiday special, since she returns to Fox along with Kelly Clarkson and Ruben Studdard for "Kelly, Ruben & Fantasia: Home" for Christmas" Wednesday, Nov. 24.

All three have new albums in stores this month, so their appearance isn't entirely altruistic. That said, their vocals - individually and in tandem - should put fresh spins on many familiar holiday tunes, the classic as well as the contemporary.

Movie: City Hall
A starry-eyed Southern transplant (John Cusack) serving as deputy mayor of New York City discovers his boss's feet of clay in this intelligent 1996 drama. The catalyst is an encounter between a cop and a drug dealer with mob connections that results in the death of a child. As he investigates, the deputy mayor comes to the painful realization that corruption and politics go together like peanut butter and jelly, and although his hero is one of the good ones, he's not immune. Al Pacino and Bridget Fonda also star.

7 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Movie: Men in Black II

Will Smith and Tommy Lee Jones take on "the scum of the universe" again in this fun, relatively short 2002 sequel to the 1997 fantasy-comedy hit. Still employed by the government, Agent J (Smith) lures Agent K (Jones) back to active duty to battle an alluring alien (Lara Flynn Boyle, "The Practice") who has Earth's destruction in mind. Rip Torn also returns. Rosário Dawson and Tony Shalhoub ("Monk") co-star.

7 p.m. on 4-CBS

Cold Case

When a high-school basketball star receives a death threat, Stillman (John Finn) asks Rush and Valens (Kathryn Morris, Danny Pino) to take another look at the unsolved 1987 murder of the boy's father — also a hoop phenom. The investigation leads them to two possible suspects, one of whom coached both father and son. Mehead Brooks and Tyron Burton guest star in "The Lost Soul of Herman Lester."

7 p.m. on 6-NBC

Movie: It's a Wonderful Life

James Stewart stars as the small-town fellow who, thanks to his bumbling uncle, faces financial ruin and decides to end his life. After all, he's never accomplished anything great, so he won't be missed. An angel named Clarence paints a far different

7 p.m. on TNT

Movie: The American President
Playing against type, Michael Douglas is a charmer in his 1995 role as a recently widowed president of the United States. Throwing political caution to the wind, he pursues a sexy lobbyist (Annette Bening) despite the effect his actions might have on his upcoming re-election campaign.

8 p.m. and HALL

Movie: A Boyfriend for Christmas
When she was 13, Holly Grant (Kelley Williams, "The Practice") asked Santa for a boyfriend. St. Nick didn't deliver. Now Holly is 33, successful at work but not in love, and has forgotten that long-ago wish. Santa, however, has not. Patrick Muldoon ("Melrose Place") also stars in this lighthearted new holiday romance, with Charlesurning as Kriss Kringle.
